IS OMX Iceland Index Fund is an equity index fund and invests only in equities listed on Nasdaq OMX Iceland. The fund aims to diversify its investments according to each underlying company's weight in the benchmark index for the fund, OMXI8CAP. The benchmark index for IS OMX Iceland 10 Index Fund includes the 8 largest and most traded stocks on the Icelandic stock exchange. Fluctuations in the benchmark index can therefore result in fluctuations in the NAV of the fund. The fund's price can decrease as well as increase. The price and return of the fund depends on stock prices and therefore reflects market fluctuations. Investing in equities is risky, although it is possible to reduce the risk with a well diversified portfolio of equities. Investment in a mutual fund is less risky than investments in individual securities. Investments in equities should be considered as long term investments and each investor should be aware of his/her own risk profile.

Various financial risks are always related to investment activities, such as the risk of no yield or the risk of losing the capital invested. It should further be noted that international investing includes risks related to political and economic uncertainties as well as currency risk. Past performance does not indicate nor guarantee future performance of an investment. Each investor's investment objectives and financial situation is different. Before making an investment decision, it is important to seek expert advice and familiarise oneself with the investment market and different investment alternatives. Investors are encouraged to familiarise themselves with the IS Index Fund prospectus, especially regarding risk, available on www.isfunds.is. This summary is informative in nature, and should not be interpreted as a recommendation to take, or not to take, any particular investment action. This summary does not represent an offer or an invitation to buy, sell or subscribe to any particular financial instruments.
